

Summertime in Vienna

03. August 2014

- Culinary
- Open Air
- Summer
- Water

Summertime in Vienna

Being on holiday by myself too at the moment, I have prepared a few tips for summertime in Vienna if you are looking for pleasure and relaxation beside culture and sightseeing.

But before, let me say thank you to the Vienna Tourist Board, who always provides me with new ideas, program suggestions, and much more so this website can only be recommended.

Start actively into the summer day

When the heat wave might come again and you're looking for something to cool down, then Vienna has a pretty wide range of choices.

Of course there are all the outdoor pools, then you have the Old Danube with a comprehensive range of water sports, the Danube itself, many natural bathing places that are quite and away from the hustle and noise, and also some water sport activities that you would not expect to find in Vienna. For even more beach feeling the beach volleyball courts take care. And don't miss eating ice cream.

... and then enjoy a pleasant and relaxed evening.

As much fresh air also makes you hungry and the nice weather also fits to it chill out in the evening in a Heurigen (a wine tavern, some even very close by the Appartements), enjoy a fine barbecue or simply relax in an outdoor garden.

Or you spend the evening at an open air cinema, or in Museumsquartier at "Summer of Sound", or....

In short, summer has so much to offer in Vienna that really the best is just look on the side of the Vienna Tourist Board where you find many more ideas.

Greetings from my holidays

Stephanie

Add a comment